Early Registration
July 1-November 15, 2008

The Call for Papers has been extended! Please submit an abstract before July 25 for an oral or poster presentation for the 2009 CNPS Conservation Conference, January 17 – 19, 2009 in Sacramento, California.

Abstract submission instructions and session information can be found on the conference website, <http://www.cnps.org/cnps/conservation/conference/2009/>

July 25, 2008 is the deadline to submit an abstract for an oral or poster presentation. Accepted authors will be invited to publish manuscripts in the conference proceedings.

We welcome submissions from a wide audience of researchers, practitioners, students and professionals alike. Our ability to achieve the mission of our society is impelled by a unique collaborative effort of interested and involved persons. We hope that you will contribute your plant conservation efforts to our conference.

The main goal of this conference is to identify and promote science- and policy-based strategies and solutions to improve the conservation of California's native flora and natural landscapes. To learn more about the principal objectives of the conference and additional information, please visit <http://www.cnps.org>

Registration for the 2009 Conservation Conference opens after July 1, 2008 and more details will be posted to <http://www.cnps.org/registration>, as they are available.

Volunteers are needed from now until the end of the conference!

If you'd like to help, on-site, during the conference please contact Andrea Williams, Andrea_Williams@nps.gov. Partial rebates of conference registration are available to on-site conference volunteers, with students and new professionals given the first option for volunteer positions and rebates. More details can be found on the conference website.
